India has a diversified financial sector, which is undergoing rapid expansion. The sector comprises of commercial banks, insurance companies, non-banking financial companies, co-operatives, pension funds, mutual funds and other smaller financial entities. The financial sector in India is predominantly a banking sector with commercial banks accounting for more than 60 percent of the total assets held by the financial system. India is today one of the most vibrant global economies, on the back of robust banking and insurance sectors. The country is projected to become the fifth largest banking sector globally by 2022, as per a joint report by KPMG-CII.

According to a recent report published by the National Skill Development Corporation (NSDC), about 14 lakh people are likely to be employed in the banking industry by 2022. With a renewed focus on 'financial inclusion' and new banks on the anvil, the talent need for the sector will be higher than ever. With the rising use of technology in banking services, recruiters are looking at different set of skills that would help them scale their business keeping the cost low. Banking professionals are expected to possess these skills apart from the specific functional competencies.

- Are well-structured (the different levels of the program are well-defined and scheduled in advance).

- Help create a social culture (participants spend a lot of time interacting with each other).
- Use demonstration & experiential learning (case studies, group discussions, presentations and others).

Curriculum

Our curriculum is continuously updated keeping in line with the industry trends, regulatory guidelines and best global practices. We have a panel of industry stalwarts and academicians who review and help evolve our curriculum to ensure that it meets the needs of the industry professionals.

Our curriculum is designed to keep in sync with our blended learning approach. The academic sessions cover the latest and essential theories of the finance industry. The practical sessions focus on the current market scenario. The faculty aims to draw lessons from the current as well as historic market activities to give the students an understanding of how the market has evolved to its present day scenario and help the students develop skills that will drive the future course of the finance industry.

Pedagogy

Our learner-centered and participant-directed learning approach is as stimulating for the participants as it is for the faculty. The use of case studies and hands on exercises ensure that the learning is complete & the right skills are imparted.

We have arrived at this teaching methodology after intense research in the best teaching practices around the world. We recognize the need for the right blend of theory and practice in teaching, especially for subjects like Financial Markets & Financial Technology, where, although the basic principles never change, new techniques, practices and organizational structures frequently evolve to meet ever-changing needs of the Industry and its various participants.

9 Learning Outside Classroom

There isn't a hint of doubt that learning in a classroom will impart the requisite knowledge to the students. However, given the scope of learning one can achieve through interactive and engaging activities, it becomes all the more important to address these with our students. Teaching & learning can become spontaneous & student-centred when moved out of the confines of the classroom & into the world, at large. Learning experiences outside the classroom are inherently interdisciplinary.

Our activity-based sessions focus on achieving practical, tangible, real-world results, by ensuring every participant is engaged completely, throughout the program. The activities are less glamourous and more focussed on making a significant impact on the student's growth.

Here, at BSE Institute, we provide an experiential learning environment where students feel energised and confident of speaking their minds; ensuring every participant is constantly engaged and continually learning.

10 Learning Outside Classroom

BIL Social - Interactive Sessions for Self Development

*Participation - Open for all

Gone are the days where academic excellence alone could land you a good job. The industry today, needs employees with well-rounded personalities. In order to give its students an edge above the others, not only academically but also as individuals, BIL hosts extra-curricular activities and workshops for its students, every week.

BIL Social is a weekly event which incorporates various co-curricular and extra-curricular activities, organized to help students step out of their comfort zones and learn in the process. The primary objective of this activity is to enhance the creativity and social skills of the students. Students are placed in social situations which may not align with their comfort zones. BIL Social provides them with an opportunity to develop interpersonal relationships. Social interactions also boost self-esteem, develop interpersonal skills & in turn, enable personal growth.

Such activities teach students how to work well with different people, build leadership qualities, develop their communication skills & handle conflict resolution. Participation in such events improves the critical thinking skills of students. They expand their social circle, which help them form connections and thus develop a greater world perspective. Breaking the monotony of classwork & studies, this event receives a very positive response from the students. Of course, awards & rewards given out each week act as great positive motivators.

BIL has the distinct advantage of being at the centre of action — being located in the financial hub of India and one of the world's most rapidly emerging markets. Further, BIL is a wholly owned subsidiary of BSE Ltd. which is one of the key catalysts of economic change and market mobilization. This has helped us provide insights into the unique functions of the world of finance.

The first-hand experience of our faculty and subject matter experts in dealing with the realities of the markets, enable us to appreciate how organizations, entrepreneurs and investors identify and respond to the new challenges and opportunities.

Our commitment towards always being at the forefront in the competitive, contemporary and evolving business practices has led to initiations of programs that reflect the realities of the marketplace.

Simulation labs replicate actual business situations that are conducted in such a way that students must work together to make difficult decisions under typical management conditions - including a lack of complete information, complex - tradeoff situations, uncertainties and time pressure.

For more than two decades, the BIL faculty have drawn on their passion for teaching, their experience in working with organizations worldwide, and the insights gained from their experience in educating professionals who have shaped the business practice in financial markets not only in India but also many other countries around the world. Our course design and development is firmly grounded in knowledge of business processes - in entrepreneurial companies and established firms unconstrained by the boundaries of academic disciplines.

25 Industry Practice*

Purpose

A recurring theme in the realm of educational reform and innovation has been that of linking University education with Industry, to develop professional competency in an individual. Industry interface meets the rapidly changing needs and challenges of a professional work place. This practice enables students to acquire professional and domain skills by applying the knowledge they possess, in unfamiliar, open ended real life situations.

Whether you want to be an auditor for a major accounting firm or a Wall Street investment banker, industry practice through internships make a tremendous difference. You will not only earn valuable experience to add to your CV, but also receive a competitive advantage if you apply to those businesses after graduation. It can help you get meaningful experience and apply what you've learned in the classroom to a real-world context.

Process

After a brief orientation in the assigned organization, the students are involved directly in addressing the predefined problems of the host organization. The students are encouraged to work independently, under the technical guidance of a professional expert of the organization and the general guidance of faculty.

Industry engagement process comprises of two steps: Monitoring & Evaluation. An offsite project focused on a well-defined problem which is done by a group of 3 to 5 students under the guidance of a corporate mentor from the sponsoring organization and the academic mentor from the institute. This is done by the student on campus with a few site visits to understand specifications and study the problem. Continuous monitoring would be done by the academic mentors. The monitoring system will see to it that students strictly follow the organization rules, regulations and timings. Academic mentors keep a watch on the students with the help of organization coordinators and devise various means to gauge the student's progress.

Since, Industry Practice is a course which carries 100 marks weightage, the performance of the student would be evaluated through different components like Project reports, Seminar, Viva, weekly / fortnight progress report. A handout will be given to the students before starting the course describing all the components of evaluation, dates, marks etc

Outcome

Industry Practice is an excellent opportunity to take your career plan, for a test drive. Interning in a specific field in a business allows an individual to experience what it is like to pursue a career in that industry and can help determine if a particular job is a good fit. A successful internship will not only provide you with the experience of working in a certain field, but it will also provide you with the opportunity to meet, network, and engage with experts specializing in your subject of interest or from other professions.

A student learns to integrate theory into experience and assess their interests and talents in their subject of study through industrial participation. They gain transferrable skills, recognize and comprehend processes and protocols of an organization as well as the industry in which they operate, and effectively reflect on the quality of their contribution to the business. As a consequence of the practice, individuals are able to refine and reassess their own professional aspirations.
